SASBA Red Hatters

SANTA CLAUS CAME TO TOWN LAST FRIDAY

Twenty-four SASBA Red Hatters descended on the Carpenter House last Friday to celebrate friendship and Christmas. It was just wonderful to see so many of you decked out in your Red Hat best.

Our hostess, Jan Colaluca, did an outstanding job putting this event all together. The food was plentiful and delicious (I love that pasta salad, the ambiance was great, and I just enjoyed my last piece of candy from the box Jan gave as favors. Barbara Redlinger provided another beautiful dish garden as a "thank you" for our hostess.

We were reminded that we were in the "big city" because a few of our ladies got caught in traffic and were late arriving, but we passed the time singing (and I use that term loosely) Red Hat Christmas carols until everyone arrived. Then it was on to the Chinese Gift Grab and I must say it was rather tame this year. There was a bit of a tussle between CeCe Garcia and Pat Paine over a Santa Claus, but no blood was spilled and I think they are speaking to each other again. Poor Ellen Wall opened at least half of the gifts under the tree and each time they were promptly stolen. She vainly tried to hide two different angels that came her way, but to no avail. These SASBA Red Hatters are ruthless, but all in good fun.

Secret Sisters were revealed and gifts exchanged. Some were surprised - some crafty gals had already figured out who their Secret Sisters were. Thank you, Debbie, for all your kindness to me throughout the year.

We were so happy to have Janice Gibbs back after a long absence (glad Robert was able to bowl); Helen Freehauf was to glad to have her fellow "babe" back at the brackets table; Freda Cockrell left the golf course long enough to join us; Ellen Wall made the trip from Tupelo to be there; Barbara Medlin was there, elegant as always; Debbie Ellison (my pinkie in training) fought the traffic from Waco and brought us all Christmas CDs - thank you Debbie; Kathy King (my other pinkie in training) was a big help to me; Nanci Johnson was back and she won the Ladybug Award; we were glad to see Bettie Sands back; Charlene Schneider was wearing her positive attitude with a smile and it looks good on her; Sue Ellison was looking great; Peggy Brooks behaved herself (mostly); Alene Hensley tells me she is learning from Peggy - heaven help us! Gayle Currie was looking more "Queenly" than the Queen; we were all in awe of Renae Crouch's gift to her secret sister (Peggy) - she is so talented; Donna Smith left the beach to be with us; Lavella Roper was her usual cheerful self; Brenda Park and Betty Britton were there looking Christmassy; and Betty won the door prize. CeCe wasn't late and I think Pat Paine has forgiven her for stealing Santa Claus. Thank you again, Barbara and Ellen for your generosity this year and thank you, Jan, for making this all possible.

Merry Christmas to All My Ladies!
